livestream at youtube.com/peaceandjusticeworks

Noor Ghazi, an Iraqi-American peace activist based in the United States, will appear on a livestream presentation on Tuesday, June 25. Ms. Ghazi will speak about the history of US involvement in Iraq, including the effects of sanctions and the 1991 "Gulf War," the 2003 US invasion, and the resulting 20+ years of turmoil in her native land. Her personal experience makes this more than a recitation of history. The presentation will be followed by a moderated Q&A.

Ms. Ghazi holds an MA in Peace and Conflict Studies with a focus on International Peace Development. She serves as Director of the University Sponsorship Program at Guilford College with Every Campus A Refuge (ECAR). Her involvement as a professor of practice at UNC Chapel Hill-US and visiting lecturer at Mosul University-Iraq has allowed her to dedicate time to peace projects, including a documentary highlighting life under ISIS in Mosul. With a strong emphasis on conflict in Iraq's modern history, Ms. Ghazi actively fosters collaborative efforts for peace building by creating inclusive platforms that unite diverse voices towards a more peaceful future in the region.

Instructions for participating in the Q&A period after Ms. Ghazi's presentation will be posted at the time of the event. The presentation is coordinated by Peace and Justice Works Iraq Affinity Group (IAG). It is cosponsored by War Resisters League-Portland Chapter and Peace Action Group at First Unitarian. It is endorsed by Alliance for Democracy and partially funded by the IAG's Ruth Holt Memorial Peace Journey Fund.
